Get Ready For Some Chaos & Mayhem In
'Burn The City' Now Available On The Android™

Shoot-To-Kill In Physics-Based Action Game!

Independent developer JoshOClock has just released an updated version of 'Burn The City' for the Android™. In this physics-based action puzzler, currently ranking #27 in the Casual Games category, and #158 in paid games overall, you play the role an adorable creature born to an empty nest because the evil humans have kidnapped your family, and obviously, revenge must be taken! Similar in style, and combining the best of games such as Angry Birds™ and Worms™, this awesome action puzzler has previously been released on PC through Kongregate, and also exists for the iOS.

On your mission to destroy all mankind you must overcome more than 70 levels, and thankfully at your aid you have your fireball attack, and by eating different colored YUMs that are gathered by destroying crates throughout the levels, you obtain 3 special attacks: the first is TNT, which turns the standard fireball into a green explosive shot! The second is "Sniper", which gives better accuracy across far distances, and finally the third special attack is "nuke" (YES!), which unleashes a nuclear blast (Sweet Motherload)

The latest update on Android™ includes 25 brand new levels, and a new stage called 'DAWN' (desert theme), that adds new challenging obstacles in the form of rain and wind. Additionally, the update includes a brand new Battle Mode where the objective is to destroy an endless horde of human kindling equipped with tanks and choppers! And finally, exclusive to the Battle Mode are new Nuclear YUMs capable of obliterating all on-screen enemies!

It doesn't matter who you are, what you are, or where you are - 'Burn The City' is compatible with any Android™ device running 2.2 or higher, supporting resolutions from 480 x 320 to 1280 x 1024, and is ready for you to download NOW!
