ContactsPlus XL: Popular Contact Manager On Apple iPhone™ & Apple iPod touch® Got Bigger & Better!

Extensive Facelift And Plenty Of Upgrades!

In January of this year Jonathan Teboul released ContactsPlus, one of the best contact managers for the Apple iPhone™ and Apple iPod touch®, which in summary gives you the ability to easily create, organize and delete groups of contacts in your address book. But that was only the beginning. Since the original release Jonathan has been very busy upgrading ContactsPlus with so much stuff that it's bursting with features: ContactsPlus XL is not just an upgrade, it's a leap forward including a brand new layout and design.

For example, in ContactsPlus it was only possible to locate a contact by name, email address and phone number. In XL this option has been expanded to company, profession, nickname, city, state, and almost anything else you can imagine, and it is now possible to send bulk emails by selecting recipients for the TO, CC and BCC fields. ContactsPlus XL has more than 15 filters available for sorting, and now includes an integrated smart-phone keypad making calls even easier; as digits are entered entire numbers are suggested, particularly useful if you have trouble remembering phone numbers. Another upgrade is the existing Coverflow mode: in the XL version the entire interface adapts to your settings and everything is customizable. You have the ability to remove modules that don't seem useful and add bookmarks to the ones you find most useful. Coverflow allows you to tilt your phone in landscape mode and scroll through contacts, much like album covers in the music player. Finally, the XL version of ContactsPlus has received a complete facelift: the GUIs are completely customizable and anything from colors to font size to display settings are under
